

Why Choose WhitworthKee?

Our research and evaluation firm specializes in delivering comprehensive approaches and solutions that drive measurable outcomes. We focus on understanding the context and culture of communities and programs to inform our work, ultimately yielding richer data. Through applying our proven methodology, the contextualized findings empower and enable our clients to achieve meaningful and actionable insights for the communities they serve.

Core Competencies

Health and Well-Being Expertise

Bring a holistic perspective and understanding to your projects. Team members have expertise across an array of health and well-being areas, including chronic diseases such as obesity, diabetes and high blood pressure; food access and nutrition; and health and health systems research, and more. Through our multidisciplinary team, we offer creative and innovative approaches, coupled with our team's health and well-being expertise to tailor approaches fit for your organization's needs.

Program Evaluations

Enhance program effectiveness and impact through tailored evaluations that support strategic decision-making across all phases of an initiative. We assess feasibility, implementation, fidelity, outcomes, and long-term impact to help organizations understand what's working, where improvements can be made, and how to communicate results to funders and their partners. Our evaluation designs are responsive to your goals and context—ensuring findings are actionable, relevant, and rooted in the realities of your program and community

Organizational Assessments

Bring forth a deeper understanding of multiple perspectives, tailored to their unique experiences and roles within your project or program. This includes an environmental scan to provide a deeper understanding, resulting in responsive surveys, focus group and interview protocols, and more. We offer customized support focused on specific demographic factors, such as geography, role, race/ethnicity, gender, social class, etc.

Professional Development

Expand professional development opportunities for your organization. We develop curriculum, facilitate meetings and communities of practice.

How Do We Conduct Research?

We customize the research process based on your organization's specific needs. On every project, we take into account social factors, the setting, and organizational or community climate.

STEP

1

Develop a tailored approach based on your project's goals and objectives.

2

Utilize the most appropriate techniques to answer critical questions.

3

Gather ongoing input from partners, through activities such as interviews, focus groups, and/or listening sessions.

4

Report findings and/or implementation strategies, coupled with ways to measure success.

How Do We Report Our Findings?

We work with our clients to tailor to their needs. Regardless of the reporting format, you will receive comprehensive findings to ultimately answer your organization's most important questions.

We provide our clients:

- Findings based on social identity, when possible
- Inclusive, accessible, easy-to-understand reports
- Research-backed recommendations
- Space for community feedback
- Strategies to achieve continued success
